CAN YOU GUESS.

Here's a Chance to Make Ten Dollars Easy.

All You Have to Do is to Pick the Winners In the Coming Primary.

Just for the interest attached to a guessing contest and to put a little more interest into the coming campaign for County officers, THE NEWS will give its readers a chance to make ten dollars and have a little fun at guessing on the side.

To the person making the first nearest correct guess of the winners in the Democratic Primary Election which will be held in this county on Saturday, June 1st, 1901, THE NEWS will present a ten dollar gold piece. The conditions of the contest are simple. Old subscribers and new subscribers who pay $2 on their subscriptions will each be entitled to 10 guesses, and as many guesses as they pay year's subscription. If no one guesses correctly, the first one who guesses the closest to all the winners will receive the ten dollars.

You intend to pay your subscription anyway, and you will be well paid before the first day of June and have a chance of getting your money back, besides gaining the distinction of knowing more about the political situation than your neighbors.

Each guess will be registered when received as to the exact day and minute. No one will be permitted to see how any one else has guessed. In guessing only the offices on the ballot are to be considered.

GRANDMAS OF TODAY

THEY KEEP IN THE RACE WITH THE YOUNG PEOPLE TO THE END.

The Old Fashioned Grandmother, the One Who Placidly Sat in the Chimney Corner Darning Stockings, Is a Thing of the Past.

I was lamenting the fact that I had never known my grandmothers. One died before I was born and the other when I was a few months old. I thought it would be so comforting to have a grandmother because they always regarded their grandchildren as being incapable of doing wrong. At least they were sure to multiply one's virtues and minimize faults. Their chief object in life, as I picture them, was to minister to their descendants' comfort, to make the crooked places straight. The grandmother of my fancy would keep my clothes in repair, darn the stockings, knit plenty of wash-rags and silk mittens, surprise me with my favorite dishes, laugh at my jokes and generally submerge her life in the affairs of mine. What was I going to do in return for all this unselfish devotion? I would be her granddaughter. That, according to the old traditions, was quite enough compensation.

I was hunting forth, exploring my views and desires on the grandmother question in the presence of one of those people who delight to take a person down and make him feel cheap, especially if they areoline one less young than the family Bible records.

This individual spoke up and said: "Why, if your grandmothers were living they would be so aged that they would be mummified. Instead of darning your stockings, knitting your mittens, they would be blind, bald and imbecile. You would have to tend them with greater slavishness than a mother a newborn babe, and without the sweet recompense in the latter case. When people become imbecile with age, they grow repulsive, and the prolonging of this state is dreadful, while each day the unfolding of a budding life is filled with mysterious delights."

Of course I did not want a grandmother that was deaf, blind and imbecile. I thought I would drop the subject, as it appeared to be getting personal. But my companion continued: "Besides, could it be possible in the order of things for you to have a vigorous, industrious, capable grandmother, she would not be sitting at the chimney corner darning your stockings. She would be out attending to her lodge or club business, visiting the military openings, ordering a fashionable gown, playing cards or attending a high tea. The old fashioned grandmother is as much a thing of the past as the spinning wheel, the canalboat, stagecoach, making candles and family rendered soap."

I protested that I did not believe my grandmother would be of the modern pattern. I had heard my mother tell often of how completely her mother had her mother for company and outside activities, and she had grandchildren. She had raised a large family, but these reproductions were just as much a delight as had been the originals. She infinitely preferred their society to that of grown people. Their prattle, school experiences, little ambitions, filled her life completely. She was constantly planning surprises for them by making animal cakes, individual pies, candy, aprons, hood, dolls clothes.

"Yes, but if she lived now she would be different. The air she would breathe is filled with assertive germs which declare that every woman owes it to herself to have a career and stand at the helm and steer it to the very end. She must not allow her life to be submerged in that of her own children, as they make their appearance rather uncomely frequently, but must have outside missions. As soon as her offspring is married off, which is accomplished with as great dispatch as diplomacy can secure, then she is free to carry out her schemes and natural desires untrammeled."

"Perhaps you are right," I replied. Such a grandmother as this would be no comfort to me as a grandmother, while she might be a most helpful friend, and I could be proud of her position in the literary, artistic or philanthropic world as her tastes might dictate her pursuit.

A grandmother of my acquaintance said to me not long ago: "It would be a great trial to me to have to care for my grandchildren in the house with me now. I could not adapt myself to their demands and interruptions. I have raised my family and now want my time for individual pursuits." This woman has especially talents and necessities for using them and her case these feelings may be seen unnatural. But this I learned the sentiment that possesses the grandmothers of my age who have no special avocations outside the domestic circle. If they have means, they buy handsome gifts for their grandchildren and wish them to have all the advantages possible that do not represent personal self sacrifice or curtailment of freedom of action.

Women are imbued with the spirit of the age, which demands that there shall be no old ladies with caps and shawls who stay at home and guard the fireside, but that they must keep in the race with the young people to the very end.—Susan W. Ball in Terre Haute Gazette.

It is hard to say which is the best thing for us," remarked the bill collector. "If nobody paid his bills, we should get no consideration, but if they paid them we should be thrown out of business." SUTHERLAND.

Sutherland was a famous bound, named from the English banker who presented him to the empress of Russia. The dog came near causing the most terrible mistake that has occurred with a dog.

"Sir," said a valet one morning, entering the Chamber of the Mr. Sutherland who gave the dog to the empress.—"Sir, your house is surrounded by guards, and the director of the police is requesting to see you."

"What does he want?" cried the banker.

"I know nothing, sir," replied the valet, "but it appears to be an affair of importance."

"Show him in."

The valet departed and reappeared in a few moments, conducting Mr. Rose, whom the banker at a glance perceived to be the bearer of formidable news. If

"Sir, you must believe how very deeply I am grieved at having been chosen by my gracious sovereign to accomplish an order whose severity afflicts me, though I have undoubtedly been provoked by a great crime."

"By a great crime?" cried the banker.

"You, sir, since to you the punishment attaches."

"I am a naturalized Russian, as you know, and I swear to you that our sovereign might search my conscience to its depths without discovering any subject of complaint in my actions or thoughts."

"Your being a naturalized Russian is what makes you a saint, so terrible is the punishment that has been inflicted on you."

"Indeed! Does he contemplate sending me back to England?"

"England is your own country, and that punishment would not be so severe."

"Good heavens, you frighten me!"

"Silber, sir, is a delightful country that has been calumniated. You might return from there."

"Am I condemned to a prison?"

"Am I condemned to a prison?"

"The hand is painful, but the knot does not destroy life."

"My God!" cried Sutherland. "Am I to die?"

"And what a death!"

"What? Is it not enough to kill me without trial? Has more been ordered?"

"Alas, yes!"

"Well, speak, sir. I am a man and have some courage. Speak!"

"My dear sir, if the command had not been given to myself, I never would have believed it. You are to be flayed alive."

The poor banker uttered a groan of agony.

"What you tell me is incredible. You must have lost your reason."

THE PICKWICK CLUB.

The excellent entertainment to be given at the Opera House on next Friday night by the above company will undoubtedly be attended by a large and select audience. Besides the artists who have been advertised, we are promised a number of surprises in the way of sketches, solos, etc. The News witnessed a dress rehearsal of the company yesterday and can safely recommend a very pleasant evening to those who attend.

**

THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT.

About one hundred children responded to the call for participants in this operetta to be given in June for the benefit of the Public Library fund, and their enthusiasm is unbounded. They have gone to work in earnest, and under the direction of Miss Martian, who has already won their love and confidence by her gentleness and wonderful management, they will furnish an entertainment which will be the most beautiful and charming ever given by local talent. The rehearsals will be held in Miss Tipton's school-room. A number of our club women will act as patrons. A list of the principals and the characters to be assumed, and also the chaperones, will soon be published. The dates will be June 14th, evening entertainment, and Saturday, June 15th matinee.

The Carnival.

Preparations for the big A. O. U. W. carnival on June 12th are being pushed with unabated zeal. The parade will be the biggest thing of its kind ever seen in Paris. Participating in the parade will be Garth Lodge, A. O. U. W.; Conner de Lion Commandery, Knights Templar; Paris Lodge, F. & A. M.; Improved Order of Red Men; Odd Fellows; Uniform Rank K. of F.; Elks; Paris Fire Department; numerous mercantile floats; about twenty decorated pony carriages, and numerous other attractions. The Richmond band will be engaged, and negotiations are being made to secure the celebrated First Regiment Band of Cincinnati. The committee is leaving no stone unturned to make it a day of genuine enjoyment to everyone who attends. Every lodge in Central Kentucky will send a delegation, and it is estimated there will be at least ten thousand visitors in Paris on that day.

Meeting Of Sir Knights.

Friday night will be the regular meeting of Conner de Lion Commandery, Knights Templar, when the Red Cross and Templar degrees will be conferred.

HOSPITAL FUND IS STARTED.

The News is pleased to state that its readers and to all those interested in the hospital movement for Paris, that at last there is a prospect of it being carried through. We have often stated that all we needed was a start, and Garth Lodge, A. O. U. W., of this city, has generously offered that start. The News yesterday received the following communication:

PARIS, KY., May 20, 1901.
EDITOR BOURBON NEWS.

Appreciating the fact that your paper was the first one to mention the fact that a hospital was a badly needed institution in this city, we have been industriously publishing that fact in the hope of getting the proper persons interested in the movement to build one, we think your good actions deserve some encouragement. At a meeting of the committee on entertainment of the carnival of Garth Lodge, A. O. U. W., of this city, it was unanimously decided to turn over the net receipts of our carnival on June 12th to the nucleus of a hospital fund. There will be no provision attached to the gift further than in case the hospital is not built within a period of one year. It is the desire of the lodges. We earnestly hope that the action on the part of Garth Lodge will be an incentive to others to take the matter up, and that it will terminate in the hospital's being built.
